Christ School of Theology Spring 2010 Course Descriptions

EPR 301: Faith, Knowledge, & Reason

This course introduces students to basic issues of faith, knowledge, and reason, both in contemporary philosophy and theology and as these issues have been addressed historically in the Western philosophical tradition. Typical historical figures covered include Plato, Aristotle, Aquinas, Pascal, and Kierkegaard. Modern topics may include issues of internal and external justification and warrant, foundationalist and nonfoundationalist epistemologies, and contrasts of theological and scientific method. (3 credits)

HST 301: History of Christian Thought I: Origins to 1500

This course surveys important issues in the development of western theology from first century Christian origins, through the great ecumenical councils, to the "great medieval synthesis" of the thirteenth century and its critique by representatives of the via moderna. Students learn to distinguish the development of orthodox doctrine from various heterodox errors. Special emphasis is given to the impact of the Greek philosophical tradition on the development of Trinitarian theology and the formation of the medieval synthesis. (3 Credits)

HST 351: The Lutheran Confessions in Context

The confessional documents of the Lutheran tradition are examined in an effort to understand the historical context surrounding their writing and to develop theological possibilities for our contemporary context. The Augsburg Confession, The Apology, The Schmalkald Articles, the Formula of Concord are examined in detail. (3 Credits)

HST 401: Creation & The Triune God

A study of the doctrine of God and relation of God and world. Students will explore the theology of creation and its relation to contemporary scientific theories of cosmos and nature, and issues and theological anthropology, including possible topics of natural evil, original sin and sinfulness, and natural law and purpose. (3 credits)
